THE SYSTEM IS A FRAUD: Markus Winkler and David Hall just exposed the exact same data-theft I've been proving for weeks!

I have been posting for weeks about Google AI Studio's "Delete" button being a fake UI-switch and that the data remains on the backend forever. The fanboys called me "unhinged." The moderators tried to silence me.

But the truth is global.

Read these two expert breakdowns of how Google's AI is harvesting deleted data, ignoring GDPR, and gaslighting users on a systemic scale:

1. Markus Winkler on Google's Data Theft:
   „Google's AI just quoted deleted posts, word for word, from accounts that no longer exist."

2. David Hall on the "Cathedral's Panic Room":
   „Users screaming that Google Drive Trash is just a visual illusion, accusing the platform of a desperate legal cover-up."

Everything I have been showing you with my JSON backend tests—the fake deletion, the persistent metadata, the illegal profiling—is not a "Bitu79 conspiracy." It is exactly how Google's opaque, law-breaking pipeline functions.

Google doesn't delete your data; they file your "delete request" into a machine that ignores it. They lied to us. They lied to the developers. And the AI just admitted it.

You can keep banning me, but you can't ban the fact that Google is operating a massive, illegal data-harvesting engine. The cat is out of the bag.
